Fourth Annual We Own It Summit Returns to London to Highlight and Explore Women's Participation in High-Growth Enterprises June 27-28

Sallie Krawcheck, Helena Morrissey, Nicola Horlick, Ruth Owades, Janneke Niessen to offer keynotes and VC Awards & Global Pitch Winners Announced

(LONDON, UK) 11 June 2013 – The number of women starting new companies is growing and yet less than 5% of VC funding is invested in women-led companies. Women's participation in business and MBA programs has grown more than five-fold since the 1970's and yet women account for only 6 percent of high income earners in the Fortune 500 and only 16.6% of their boards.

"However, those female entrepreneurs who are successful at accessing networks and capital perform on par with their male counterparts," commented Sharon Vosmek, Astia CEO. In an ongoing commitment to women high-growth entrepreneurs, a global collaboration of women and men, named We Own It, seeks to address the barriers facing women high growth entrepreneurs and identify the paths to success for women in all stages of high-growth business: from new entrepreneur to CEO to corporate board member.

"Despite ample evidence that greater diversity in senior management and on boards is good for business, the progress of women in business has plateaued," commented Sallie Krawcheck, owner of 85 Broads and former senior bank executive and dinner keynote for this year's Summit. "The We Own It Summit tackles this issue from the angle of women high-growth entrepreneurs, highlighting what I believe to be a key factor to progress: increasing investments in women."

Now in its fourth year and in London for the second time, the We Own It Summit (www.weownitsummit.org) on June 27th and 28th convenes visionaries, thought-leaders, idea generators, game-changers and disrupters to identify paths of success for women high-growth entrepreneurs.

Keynotes include:

Sallie Krawcheck, former President of Global Wealth & Investment Management for Bank of America US Trust. Frequently included on Forbes' and Fortune's Most Powerful Women in Business lists who recently acquired 85 Broads, a global network of over 30,000 women.

Helena Morrissey, CEO of Newton Investments and Founder of the 30% Club. Named the Financial News 'Most Influential Woman in European Asset Management' in 2010, recently appointed chairman of the Royal Academy's Corporate Board.

Ruth Owades, Entrepreneur, CEO and Corporate Director, Founder of Calyx & Corolla and Gardner's Eden, lauded by Business Week as "Best Entrepreneur" for revolutionizing the fresh flower distribution business.

Nicola Horlick, Chairman of Rockpool Investments, LLP, innovator in new investment vehicles, particularly for the film industry.

Janneke Niessen, Co-Founder/CIO Improve Digital, Online Media Woman of the Year 2011, Top 25 Hottest Women-Led Global Start-ups 2012, The Next Women top 100 most successful business women 2013.

Keynote Panel Moderator: Jonathan Moules, Enterprise Correspondent, Financial Times

"We Own It is a unique opportunity to connect with accomplished entrepreneurs, aspiring entrepreneurs, and individuals in all fields who are passionate about helping women entrepreneurs reach their goals," said Ruth Owades. "It is an honor to be part of this global gathering of smart, accomplished, dynamic individuals who share the same objectives."

The agenda includes 15 round table discussion "Salons" around specific challenges and opportunities facing women in high-growth businesses along with 4 one-on-one conversations around similar themes. A Global Pitch Competition will showcase five startups selected from an international application pool of over 100 companies who are competing for a cash prize presented by the UK Technology Strategy Board. Companies have at least one woman at the c-level, are high-growth, and address a global market. The finalists are:
